

DRY CHENIN BLANC

2010 DRY CHENIN BLANC – Clarksburg

EATOCRACY - CNN.com
July 2012

“A Chenin Blanc Bottle to Hunt Down!” - This peachy wine comes from Clarksburg, in California’s Sacramento River delta. No oak here, just zippy stainless-steel-tank freshness.

2009 DRY CHENIN BLANC – Clarksburg

WINE SPECTATOR.com
July 2011

86 Points - “Daily Wine Pick!” - Chamomile, fresh hay, lemon and tangerine flavors are intense, crisp and dry, with a terrific focus and a refreshing finish. Drink now.

SUNSET
June 2011

“Top Pick!” - Honeysuckle and Meyer lemon aromas meet a rush of melon, apple, and citrus, with a tangy, limestone finish.

WINE ENTHUSIAST
February 2011

87 Points - “Best Buy!” - A beautiful Chenin, among the best in California. Although it is dry, as the name suggests, and very crisp in acidity, it’s so fruity it almost tastes off-dry. The flavors are of green apples, lemons, limes and pineapples. Great as an alternative to Sauvignon Blanc or Pinot Grigio.

FOOD & WINE
October 2010

“Amazing Values - 100 Bottles to Drink Right Now!” - Chenin Blanc is one of the world’s most underated white grapes.

2008 DRY CHENIN BLANC – Clarksburg

TASTING PANEL
October 2009

88 Points - Smooth, clean and mellow with ripe tropical fruit, good acid structure and a long finish; fresh, balanced and charming.

FOOD & WINE
September 2009

“5 Fail-Safe Wine Values!” - Some California wines have such a strong track record that vintage essentially becomes moot. This Sonoma producer has been making crisp, peachy Chenin Blanc for more than 30 years, first from Healdsburg and now from the Clarksburg AVA.